COPS GO ON TRIAL FOR KILLING BOY

Whitman Will Have Charge of Prosecution Due to Begin To-day.

HAPPENED 2 1-2 YRS. AGO

Flood and O'Brien Contend Some One Else Fired Fatal Shot on Roof.

Two patrolmen, Cornelius J. Flood and Robert A. O'Brien, are down on the calendar of General Sessions to go on trial to-day for their lives in connection with the killing of Jimmy Cushing, 15 years old, shot in the back, on a roof in West Fifth street two and a half years ago. Charles S. Whitman, who recently obtained the indictment of the policemen, said yesterday he was ready to proceed.

It is the contention of Mr. Whitman that both policemen, who were then in plain clothes, fired their revolvers while the boy was fleeing from them over the roof and that one shot struck and killed him. The defense, conducted by Eugene F. McGee, will contend that one shot was fired on the roof when one of the policemen stumbled, but that Jimmy was probably killed by some one else.

Mr. Whitman, although by no means through his work before the Grand Jury, intends to conduct the prosecution himself, with the assistance of George N. Brothers, Assistant District Attorney. It is known that should the defense decide to-day to ask for a week's delay in the trial Mr. Whitman will not oppose it, as he considers that he could spend this week with great profit to the city in probing the Police Department further or preparing for the trial of William J. Lahey, chief inspector of the department.

Questioned yesterday concerning the plan to be proposed by Judge T. C. C. Crain of General Sessions to his fellow judges for a trial to try city officials, Mr. Whitman said he had not been told of the suggestion as yet. Judge Crain feels that the twenty-one officers held now under indictment would be tried as soon as possible, because if exonerated they will receive pay for the period during which they were idle under suspension from office. Judge Crain will preside to-day at the murder trial.

NEW SCIENCE CHURCH HOLDS FIRST MEETING

Service Follows the Rules Laid Down by Mrs. Eddy.

The first meeting of the Independent Christian Science Church, organized by persons who assert that the Mother Church has become too autocratic and that there is an increasing tendency in existing churches to emphasize the personality of Mrs. Eddy rather than her teachings, was held yesterday morning in the Hotel Astor. After the reading of the orthodox service by Alfred Brown and Mrs. May B. Edmunds, Mrs. Helena Barwis, former reader in the Temple Church, explained why the new church had been organized.

Nearly 100 persons attended the service. Most of them were former members of "regular" congregations, with sprinkling of those who are just taking up Christian Science.

Mrs. Barwis said the new church would follow strictly the service prescribed by Mrs. Eddy, and that it in no sense indicated a breaking away from the fundamental beliefs of Christian Science. It was intended, she said, rather as a reaction to those beliefs. "Just as Jesus Christ came to be regarded as God," she declared, "although He never said that He was, and His teachings became obscured by His personality, so Mrs. Eddy is being deified to the detriment of the truth she taught."

SPECIAL BOARD NAMED TO FIGHT OPEN SHOP

Mass Meetings Will Be Held All Over City.

A special committee has been appointed by John Sullivan, president of the Trade Union and Labor Council, to open the battle for the closed shop in this city early next month. The committee is awaiting the recommendations of the emergency convention of the American Federation of Labor in Washington as to the nature of the campaign, but the most probable form for the propaganda will be a series of mass meetings, which every union man will be expected to attend. William F. Kehoe, secretary of the central body, issued a statement yesterday that it would be a "fight on rock bottom to the finish."

"There will be no excursions in hot air balloons to the regions of idealism," he said. "We are going to get down to business and give battle to the open shop interests. The reputation and prestige of the organized labor movement are at stake, and such action as is necessary for the preservation of the trades unions will be taken."

'THROW UP YOUR HANDS' GIRL HEARS OVER WIRE

Reports to Police, but Robbers of Legless Man Escape.

ATTLEBORO, Mass., Feb. 27.—A legless storekeeper, Philip St. Germaine, was robbed in his room early to-day by two men, who forced a window and entered him with a revolver while they took $30 from his cash drawer.

Over a telephone that toppled to the floor when the men jumped through the window Miss Emma Jamison, an operator in the Attleboro exchange, heard a man's voice say, "Throw up your hands!" and then, "Give us your money!" She immediately gave the police St. Germaine's address, but when four patrolmen arrived at the store the men had gone.

GUNMAN'S PLEA FAILS.

Shame Insanity Once Too Often on Killing Man.

CHICAGO, Feb. 27.—Gene Geary, gunman and all round bad actor, is trying a new expedient to cheat the gallows.

"The lights! the lights! They're blind, ing me!" he shrieked as he cowered in a cell at the county jail. Dr. Francis McNamara, jail physician, completed an examination to-day and pronounced Geary suffering from locomotor ataxia.

"The lights" bothering Geary are supposed to be those of taxicabs, haunting him since he killed a taxi driver several months ago. The same insanity plea was tried first in the jury that freed him from the killing but took into consideration a self-defense plea.

A short time after his acquittal Geary shot and killed Henry Rockas. For this murder a jury found him guilty.

TO MAKE EXAMPLE OF BOY WHO STOLE BANK'S $772,000

No Mercy Is Edict of Chicago Officials and Underwriters, Who Insist Heavy Sentences Will Deter Other Thieves.

Special Despatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. CHICAGO, Feb. 27.—Quick justice will be meted out to William Dalton, the seventeen-year-old bank messenger, who was brought back to Chicago from Bloomington, Ill., this afternoon with all but $508 of his $772,000 loot. State's Attorney Crowe has assigned a special force of assistants to round up the witnesses and prepare details of the case for submission to the Grand Jury to-morrow. Dalton, in all probability, will be indicted before to-morrow night.

The company which furnished the youth's bond insists that the bank, whatever its sympathy for the lad, interfere in no way with the course of the law, and State's Attorney Crowe says that an example must be made of bank thieves.

Dalton saw his mother for the first time since his arrest late to-day. He fell into her arms, sobbing wildly, while she stroked his head, tears brimming from her eyes.

The assurance of the bank officials made to Mrs. Dalton regarding their desire to treat the lad leniently were made in good faith, but John S. Lord, attorney for the insurance company, voided them to-day when he said:

"I have impressed upon the officials of the Northern Trust Company their responsibility in this case. It is a situation not affecting the bank alone, but a situation in which all banks are involved."

"I am sorry for the boy, and the bank officials have expressed sympathy for him, but the case is up to the State's Attorney, without any bias whatsoever, and the law must take its course."

William, an object of the greatest interest in Heyworth, Bloomington and on his way to and through the Chicago local districts, took the entire matter stoically.

The little town of Heyworth, four miles from Bloomington, spent the day in celebration in honor of the town hero, Paul P. Draper, son of the town constable, John Draper, to whom was given the $26,000 reward for capturing Dalton. The greater part of the festivities took place in the principal restaurant of the town. An impromptu dinner was served. All day long a steady stream of farmers with their families visited the ex-soldier to pay him homage.

Draper to-day has a certified check for $26,000 and two ambitions. But albeit the same level head.

"What am I going to do? Get married? Well, yes. But first of all let me tell you how the money is going," he said. "Back in 1916 I took a Government claim in Montana, seventy miles northwest of Lewistown, Mont. It's a tract of 326 acres. It was pretty barren at first, but now that I've got the money it's sure going to be made awful cozy and homelike. And then I am going to be married."

The reward was formally presented to Draper in the county jail here at 1 o'clock this morning by H. O. Edmunds and William S. Miller, vice-president of the Northern Trust Company, and John S. Lord, attorney for Lloyd's of London.

They made no reservation about it, saying they were convinced he was entitled to the full amount. Draper early this morning, however, said he would give $100 to James Dennis, who saw young Dalton on the road and gave the tip to Draper.

Bloomington, Ill., Feb. 27.—James C. Dennis, chauffeur for a lumber company, who gave a ride to William Dalton, the Chicago bond thief, when he fled to Heyworth, to-day engaged attorneys who made formal claim on the Northern Trust Company for the whole of the $26,000 reward which was paid to him when he was rescued by Paul E. Draper, son of the Heyworth constable who actually made the arrest. Draper has announced that he would give part of the reward to Dennis.

DOLLY FAILS TO MEET 82-YEAR-OLD SUITOR

Confederate Veteran Travelled From Coast to Join Her.

Special Despatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. BALTIMORE, Feb. 27.—Webster Perkins, aged 82, a Confederate veteran of Portland, Ore., has been haunting the railroad station here with a rosy old, his coat lapel, watching anxiously all incoming trains for the "Dolly" he was to meet and marry in Washington on inauguration day.

Perkins says that "Dolly's" advertisement in a matrimonial paper said she was twenty years old, and she was deeply in love with her venerable hero, for she knew he fought bravely.

On Thursday Day Perkins bought the diamond ring which he sent with $200 to buy a wedding gown and pay her fare to Baltimore from Syracuse, where "Dolly" lives.

To raise the money Perkins sold his horse. "It left me pretty well broke," he said, and I also sold the chickens. I loved the old horse and I was lonelier than ever. But when Dolly's letter told me she would marry me I forgot all that and made plans for my wedding. She would know me by the rosebud and I would recognize her by her blue travelling suit.

Perkins left to-night for the South, where he will go to friends.

GUN DUEL IN STREETS TILL ONE FALLS DEAD

Kentucky Sheriff Gets His Man, but May Die.

Special Despatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. HAZARD, Ky., Feb. 27.—Two men, one an outlaw, the other a deputy sheriff, stood in the streets of this mountain town this afternoon and pumped bullets into each other's bodies until one died and the other was badly injured.

The dead man is Kelly Robinson, a thirty-year-old mountaineer, who had been known for a long time as a desperado. The wounded man is Deputy Sheriff John Smith, a youth of 22 years.

Robinson was paroled a few days ago from the Kentucky reformatory, where he had been sent to serve a term for murder. He came to Hazard to-day and terrorized the town before being run out. He returned later and shot at Smith, when the latter accosted him. His first shot missed. Smith got his artillery into action without delay, and as the heavy pistols roared people ran from every direction to see the duel.

Smith was shot twice, and though badly wounded kept his gun turned on Robinson. He shot the outlaw twice without visible effect, but when the third bullet struck him, Robinson's legs crumpled and he fell dead. Smith fell a few feet from his antagonist's body.

BABY $25,000 PRIZE WINNER.

She Is First Girl Born in Colley Family Since 1786.

NEWMAN, Ga., Feb. 27.—Miss Henrietta Hughes Colley, born in Atlanta January 10, did not come into the world with a silver spoon in her mouth, but she dropped a $25,000 prize, thus qualifying as probably the youngest prize winning baby on record. The proud parents are Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Stewart Colley of Grantville and the even prouder great aunt, who had deposited the $25,000 in a bank with the promise that it would be presented with her name to the first girl child born into the Colley family since Henrietta Hughes of Danville, Ga.

The diminutive prize winner is the first girl in the Colley family since 1786, and perhaps longer than that, as the family has no records dating further back. Mrs. Colley, formerly Miss Mary Deane of Americus, was reared by Senator Hughes, an uncle. It was after her marriage about four years ago that Miss Hughes, her aunt, is said to have made the offer of $25,000.

TAFT SPEAKS ON INJUNCTION.

"Only Bourbon Employers Think It Will Solve Labor Problem."

Former President William H. Taft spoke on "The Injunction" at the Brooklyn Academy of Music yesterday and said it was a legal instrument only, and that "only Bourbon employers think it will solve the labor problem."

"You can never down labor unionism," said Mr. Taft, "and you ought not to down labor unionism. The hope of the country lies in bringing together the capitalists and the wise and conservative union leaders. The question as to unions is whether they are unions or Soviets. They are Soviets when they seek to introduce bolshevism into our society, and to compel Government action."

In the present railroad dispute, Mr. Taft said that the men should be permitted to negotiate through any representatives they chose. The contention of the men that the roads are violating their agreement to deal with the heads of the national unions is inaccurate, he declared, because that agreement was made with the Railroad Administration and died with it.

HARDING ON TRAIN PENS INAUGURAL

Keeps Secretary Busy as He Speeds Home From Florida Vacation.

PLEASED BY NAVY CHOICE

President-elect Will Leave Marion on Wednesday for Washington.

Special Despatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Feb. 27.—President-elect Harding passed through here to-night on his way to Marion to participate in a send-off by the home folks on Tuesday before leaving for Washington.

The President-elect is travelling with Mrs. Harding, Dr. C. E. Sawyer, his physician and intimate friend, his secretary, George B. Christian, and the rest of the group that has made up his official party during his stay in Florida. To-night he is working on his inaugural address and dictating letters knowing that he will have little time for official matters from this time until after he takes office.

The approaching inauguration finds Mr. Harding in a well satisfied state of mind. His Cabinet is complete, although he has not formally announced all the appointments. He has discussed with every prospective Cabinet officer who has been in all the problems that human foresight might suggest will present themselves during the next four years. In the case of those who have not made the pilgrimage to St. Augustine Mr. Harding was sufficiently well informed of their views to make their coming unnecessary.

Mr. Harding has given only general and brief attention as yet to any other appointments. No diplomatic posts have been decided upon. But the President-elect has gone pretty fully into every phase of the domestic situation. He has been particularly gratified with the way the appointments of Edwin Denby and Col. Theodore Roosevelt, as Secretary and Assistant Secretary of the Navy, have been received.

There will be no speeches on the homeward journey. Mr. Harding has found it necessary to decline all requests that have come from cities through which he will pass for rear-end talks. He will finish work on his address to-morrow if he can and then proposes to take a brief respite until he makes his "little speech" from the east front of the Capitol.

Most of the city of St. Augustine was down to see the departure to-day and Mr. and Mrs. Harding held an informal farewell on the platform of his car. He is fond of Florida and laughingly remarked to several, who were wishing him Godspeed and a quick return, that he hoped if he came often enough to get the State into the Republican column. Mr. and Mrs. Harding will arrive in Marion about noon on Tuesday and leave the following afternoon for Washington.

STATE WON'T HALT FOR INAUGURATION

Legislature at Albany Will Act on Several Important Measures.

DAYLIGHT BILL CAUCUS

Governor's Transit Plans Will Also Come Up for Hearing on Wednesday.

Special Despatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. ALBANY, Feb. 27.

Inauguration week at Washington will not slow up the grinding of the legislative wheels at Albany. It had been thought that only non-controversial bills would be taken up so as to allow as many members as desired to attend the inauguration of President-elect Harding, but in the first half of the week at least the Legislature will act on some of the most important measures before it.

To-morrow night the Republican Senators are expected to caucus on the daylight saving repeal and the prohibition enforcement bills. The daylight saving repeal bill already has passed the Assembly, but when the Senate Republicans conferred on it last week it was found that they lacked two of the required number of voters to pass it. It was reported here to-night that the two Buffalo Senators, who had opposed the repeal, would bow to the wishes of the legislative leaders.

Gov. Miller's transit bill will come up for a hearing Wednesday. Two other measures on the Governor's legislative programme are expected to pass one House or the other this week. One is the industrial commission reorganization bill, which will be acted on in the Assembly, having already passed the Senate. The other is the bill reorganizing the State Tax Commission and combining under it all the tax collection agencies of the State.

It will undoubtedly pass the Senate in spite of the opposition of Secretary of State John J. Lyons, who objects to losing the automobile bureau, and State Comptroller James A. Wendell, who wants to retain the income tax bureau. The Assembly Codes Committee is expected to report favorably on Tuesday the two Henderson bills, designed to drive out of business fake oil and mining promoters. On the same day another hearing will be given on the veterans' civil service preference bill, for which the world war service men are making a fight.

FLEET UNITS ARRIVE.

GUANTANAMO, Cuba, Feb. 27.—Units of the United States Atlantic fleet arrived here yesterday from Panama. The French cruiser Jeanne d'Arc arrived to-day with French midshipmen on board, and Admiral Wilson has prepared a special programme of entertainment during their four day stay in this harbor.
